DANCE COMMITTEE for the Athletes' Fete which will be held in the gymnasium on Saturday, November 3. Left to right: Bollinger, Garland, Spartana, Bullington, Bamberger, Kimmerlein, Bathon, Healy, Rooney, Franz. Bullington is chairman.

The Athletes' Fete, the first social function of the Block L Club during the current year will be held in the Gymnasium on Saturday, November 3, from 9:00 'til 1:00. The dance will feature the music of The Men of Note.

The price of admission has been set at $1.80 per couple. The gymnasium will be set cabaret style, traditional of all student dances.

Committees have been set up to handle decorations, which the chairman guarantees will be unique and befitting the occasion. Publicity for the affair is under the direction of Anthony Spartana, while ticket sales will be handled by George Kimmerlein. Robert Bollinger is in charge of decorations and Brent Bamberger will handle arrangements for refreshments.

The entire affair is under the general supervision of James Bullington, dance chairman and president of the Block L Club.

The Block L Club is an organization of those who have won letters on Loyola's athletic teams. Their aim is to bolster spirit and support athletics, as well as to afford social facilities for its regular members.

Entertainment at the intermission will be supplied by a newly organized comedy team consisting of Bob Bollinger, Jerry Rooney, Bruce Healy, and Leo Green. The theme of their skit is being kept top secret, but Healy, who is acting as spokesman of the group, was quoted as saying, "We'll murder them."

Dean Releases Facts On Class Enrollment

Loyola College, according to a release by the office of the Dean of Studies has a student body of 576, or 15% less than in 1950-51. However it was expected, due to the draft, that the enrollment would be even smaller.

Last year Loyola had 149 withdrawals, of which 51 entered military service. Various reasons ranging from financial difficulties to entering the religious life claimed the rest. Statistics show that the largest number of the 440 upperclassmen are in Business Administration.

The 136 members of the freshman class also have their largest representation in B. S. II, with B. S. I, Ph.B., and A. B. following in that order. Included in this group are 58.7% of the graduating class of Loyola High School, 14% of Calvert Hall's class and 9.8% of Mount Saint Joseph's. Eleven other high schools make up the final 17.5%.

Catholic students comprise 88% of the school. The remaining categories show 13% veterans, 6.5% married and 5.2% out of towners. The graduating class of 149 almost doubles that of last year.

Secular Clergy Visits Chapel

On Sunday, October 21, the college played host to a large number of diocesan priests who were invited to an inspection tour of the new chapel. The ceremonies began at 4 o'clock with the viewing of the building and its furnishings. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament followed.

After the services the visiting clergy were guests at a buffet supper in the grand parlor of the faculty house.

Rector's Message On The New Chapel

I wish to take this opportunity to make a brief statement for our Alumni, our numerous friends and benefactors, our students and their families, about the new Alumni Memorial Chapel of Our Lady at Evergreen.

Construction of the Building itself is now almost complete and much of the equipment has been installed. Besides the completion of the stained glass windows, only a few minor finishing jobs remain.

We are actually using the Chapel for daily Mass and in it we inaugurated the school year on October 1st with the entire Student Body attending the Mass of the Holy Ghost.

Our Annual Student Retreat will be conducted in the Chapel and in the Auditorium below beginning on October 23rd.

Of course, we are using some temporary installations, for instance, the Main Altar. It will be some time before suitable equipment and adornment can be selected and installed.

Meantime, I am most eager to invite all the friends of the College to pay an informal visit to our lovely Chapel, perhaps for Mass on any weekday at 7:00 a. m. or at any other convenient time during the day.

It will not be possible to assemble all our friends in a single grand opening event, but I sincerely hope that by holding a series of events for different groups of our many interested friends, I shall be able appropriately to express, on behalf of our Faculty, our former Presidents Father Bunn and Father Talbot, and myself, our deep appreciation to all whose interest has provided for the College and its Student Body an ideal place of worship and of devotion to our Blessed Lady.

Sincerely,

THOMAS J. MURRAY, S. J.

Draft Test

Applications for the December 13, 1951 and the April 24, 1952 College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to offer this test on either date should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided. Applications for the December 13 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, November 5, 1951.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once, regardless of the testing date he selects. The results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

Yearbook Money Supplied By Seniors; Staff Named

George Strohecker

Preliminary work on the 1952 edition of the Loyola College yearbook was begun last week, with senior write-ups and general layout receiving special attention, according to editor George Strohecker. The printer for the yearbook has been selected and the book will be printed this year by the new and inexpensive photo-offset process.

Advertising leads will be given to each senior, who is unable to secure his own ad, announced advertising managers John Crouse and Joseph Bartolomeo. Each senior will submit $15 by November 15 to insure publication of the yearbook. Thus far $2010 has been raised in this manner. This represents pledges from 89% of the senior class. However, the seniors can redeem their $15 by soliciting that amount or more in advertisements. Under this plan the annual will be free to all seniors who comply with the specifications. If any surplus accrues at the end of the year it will be utilized to add pages to the annual.

There will be no spring activities or sports included in this year's yearbook due to the early printing deadline. Tentative plans call for the publication of a supplement, which will include those activities and sports omitted in the yearbook, if there are sufficient funds available to defray the costs of printing.

The editorial staff of the 1952 annual is comprised of assistant editor Thomas Garrity, photography editor William Volenick, and sports editor Anthony Spartana. Charles Connolly and Joseph Serio are in charge of senior write-ups, while Howard France heads the financing department.

College Offers Italian Course

A French club has been established on the campus under the direction of Mr. Vincent C. Colimore. The first meeting was held on Wednesday, October 17 at 12 o'clock. The aims of the organization are to increase the knowledge of French culture and to give the members an opportunity to engage in French conversation.

Mr. Colimore is also directing a weekly class in spoken Italian which is held every Friday morning at 9 o'clock. The class is divided into two sections, one for beginners and one for advanced students. The beginners' section is taught by Armando Luzzi, '52, who serves as language instructor at the Berlitz School.

Historians Review Important Elections

The History Academy has chosen the important elections of American History as the topic of their current researches. Recently Paul Steinhagen delivered a paper on the Douglas-Breckenridge-Lincoln election of 1860. Anthony Spartana also spoke on the Theodore Roosevelt-Taft-Wilson campaign of 1912. Another paper covered the 1800 race.

The academy, which meets at the homes of the various members, is moderated by Dr. William D. Hoyt, Jr., professor of history.

NDM Sets Barn Hop For Loyola

A barn dance will be held in the Notre Dame of Maryland College auditorium on Saturday, November 17, from 8 until 12 p. m. The dance is open to all the students of Loyola.

Patricia McCusker of Notre Dame and Edward Pula, social secretary of the student council at Loyola are handling the arrangements for the affair. A hillbilly orchestra and a professional caller will provide the music.

The primary purpose of the dance is to foster better social relations between the two schools. There will be no sale of tickets, but a charge of fifty cents will be made, payable at the door.

Decorations are being arranged to fit the occasion. Cider and doughnuts will be served. The affair will be stag or drag; no blind dates are being arranged.

Loyola Nite To Be Staged Soon In New Auditorium

Loyola Nite, the Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society's annual musical funfair, will be staged on November 21 at 8:15 p.m. in the new college auditorium. Featuring student written skits — musical, comedy, drama and pantomime — the show will "top performances of the past years," announced William Vollenick, president of the organization.

Following the hour and one-half show, a dance will be held. The orchestra has not yet been contracted, but the Modernaires, Brayden Ridenour and the Melodiers are under consideration.

A processing board, formed to pass on the desirability of the skits, has been set up, and is nearing the end of its work. Comprising the board are President Vollenick, the Rev. Michael Maher, S. J., moderator, and Vincent Colimore, director.

Completion of the Cohn Memorial Auditorium has been promised in time for the show. Procurement of chairs and the installment of draw curtains for the stage have been arranged.

Skits accepted are expected to start rehearsing next week. Each act will utilize student talent only. A plan to include Evening School students is under consideration.

Under consideration too is the use of the college Glee Club, which is directed by Mr. Felice Iula. The final decision on the use of the Night School students and the Glee Club is expected early today.

Evergreen Quarterly Will Publish First Edition Nov. 7

The Evergreen Quarterly expects to publish its first issue on or about November 7. The Quarterly, a literary magazine, was revived last year after a one year suspension of publication.

In a recent reorganization of the staff, John W. McGrain was appointed editor, and Frank C. Vogel and Carroll F. Conway associate editors. Melvin N. Cohen is feature editor and Sheppherd G. Kellam literary columnist. John W. Farrell is business manager.

The first sports editor in the magazine's history will be John G. Fitzpatrick. The faculty moderator is Rev. Joseph A. d'Inviillers, S. J.

All students are eligible to contribute to the Evergreen Quarterly. For future issues the publication

News In Brief

Mr. Robert S. Custer was married to Miss Monica Pellens on October 13 at Saint Ann's Church. Mr. Custer graduated with the Class of 1949 and was an active member of the student council and several other activities.

Plans for converting the old chapel into a modern lounge for the students have been completed and work is rapidly progressing on the new room. All church pews and religious objects have been removed from the building and a new floor is now being laid.

Debating Society Opens Year With New Moderator

The Bellarmine Debating Society has officially opened its schedule for the coming year. There was a decided increase in the membership of the club this year as indicated by the first two meetings. The 1951-52 topic for all colleges throughout the nation is, "Resolved that there should be permanent price and wage control." The new moderator of the society, Rev. William Davish, S. J., introduced himself to the members and addressed them on the purpose of debating. The national topic was then analyzed by the entire society in a round-table discussion. Everyone present at this initial meeting presented his personal opinion concerning price and wage control. Those who were unfamiliar with the subject, were given an opportunity to learn the basic arguments, contained in the question.

Fr. Davish, who has devoted considerable time to the topic, scheduled a debate between the officers of the society for the following meeting. Within the next two weeks handbooks are expected to arrive, supplying ample information for the affirmative and negative teams so that every member will be able to participate in the intrasociety debates as soon as possible. Letters have already been sent to various colleges in the East, inviting them to engage Loyola in public debates.

Arrangements have been made for the teams to speak before Holy Name Societies and other organizations throughout the city. The college has also been requested to compete in round-robin tournaments and informal discussions aside from the formal debates of the coming season.

1926—The Greyhound—1951

In commemoration of the 25th anniversary of THE GREYHOUND, a series of interesting articles from past issues are being reprinted. This is the first in the series, taken from the October 3, 1941 issue (Vol. XV, No. 1).

Bob Hope Guest Star At Freshman Hazing

Radio Star Makes Command Performance For Loyola Students; Charles and Chase Scene Of Wild Excitement. Traffic Held Up For Half An Hour

Traffic was tied up for blocks around the intersection of Charles and Chase Sts. Patrolmen whistled, swore, ordered, begged and beseeched, but to no avail. The crowd of more than three hundred Loyola students, Belvedere Hotel employees, and assorted passers-by preferred to stand pat.

"We want Hope! We want Hope!"

A nose peered out from an upper window followed by the famous profile of Bob Hope, the only comedian able to face a crowd without his gag men. Looking down to the crowd, composed mainly of Loyola Freshmen and their efficient and efficacious hazers, he remarked:

"What's the matter boys? The pool hall burn down?"

Crowd Demands More
The crowd immediately nominated Hope for President but the comic was unimpressed, apparently thinking that there were too many clowns in Washington. Again the cry, "We want Hope," was sent up. Mr. Hope's press agent appeared and attempted to placate the crowd, but the din increased. Mr. Hope again appeared at the window, and carrying out his fictitious radio romance, cracked:

"O. K., boys, I'll see if Madeleine Carroll will let me come down."

(Background note: For those interested, Miss Carroll was actually on location in the West Indies, making a picture.)

Hope Harangues

The star came down and made harangues to the initiates for a full half-hour from the back seat of a commandeered convertible, autographing paddles and ad-libbing in his best Pepsodent manner.

"College is a fine thing, boys." Honking horns made it impossible to hear, but after a moment, Mr. Hope continued:

"I myself, was a two letter man. But now I use Life Buoy."

(Editorial comment: Mr. Hope received about $5000 for his thirty minute show from the Pepsodent Company. So far the Sophomore class is keeping its fingers crossed.)

However, the crowd still wanted more of a good thing and he finally was forced to make a desperate dash back into the relative safety of the Belvedere.

The Trend Toward Tweeds

There has been a definite trend towards softer fabrics, such as tweeds and shetlands. Such fabrics give to the wearer a feeling of easy comfort and casual smartness. The jackets also can be worn separately as sport coat. Such fabrics lend themselves especially well to the 3-button single-breasted natural model. Pleatless trousers. Moderately priced.

Bury The Silver, Grandma! Jeb Stuart Rides Again!

Save your Confederate Greenbacks boys, the South will rise again.

No, it's not the grim, tattered veterans of Lee and Beauregard raising John Brown with the boys in blue. Unfortunately, all the original boys in butter-nut have been consigned to assorted graveyards at one time or another through the past ninety years.

But the Stars and Bars are once more being flaunted in the frightened faces of all and sundry Lincolmites. It seems the Johnny Rebs are marching again. But it's a mechanized invasion this time. No longer do the possum hunters from Dixie shout their defiant battlecry after trudging hours through that accursed Yankee mud.

Now they ride to battle in modern machines with all the comforts of modern science. Atop the thundering convertible auto, (convertible into $8 in any junk-yard) there flies the Stars and Bars, which sell for ten cents at any friendly auto supply shop. Inside this modern chariot, there ride four grim, tattered veterans charging to the fray.

Grim? Tattered? Veterans? Charging to the fray? Grim? They certainly are. In the pocket of one is his plan of action. It's labeled "Chemistry Department — Loyola College;" beneath these words is a red-pencil "60." Shouting his defiant battlecry, "Nobody told me there was gonna be a test! That unpleasant old pedagogue!"

Tattered? Darn right, you got a tuition bill last month too, didn't you? (All right so your father runs a book. Just because he doesn't pay his income tax . . .)

Veterans? Yes, suh. All four have partially recovered from the bloody battle of Philosophy 101, Biology 3, and the fight at Forty-Five Hundred and One Pines.

Rushing to the fray? You're darn right. Have you ever stood on the corner of Cold Spring and York at one minute to nine A.M.

These four Rebel Reincarnations check their side arms (crib sheets, Cicero trot, last year's exam, etc.) and prepare for the skirmish.

Naturally they are from the Squalid South, since they fly the Bonny Blue Flag, the symbol of THE Cause. Wait a minute. What's that? A New York license plate . . .

Night School Adds Courses

Courses in Advertising and Delinquency Control are being conducted in the Loyola College Evening School. Mr. Sandler, of the Sandler advertising firm is giving the course in Advertising. Mr. Bernard McDermott, Director of Probation for Juvenile Court, and Dr. E. Preston Sharp, Director of all Maryland Training Schools, will give the course leading to a certificate in Delinquency Control.

Dr. Frances Clarke, of Towson State Teachers College, is giving a course in Methods of Teaching Mathematics. Dr. Clarke studied at Bryn Mawr and Yale University.

It is interesting to note that one member of the faculty of each of the three Catholic male high schools in the city is registered in the Graduate and Evening division this semester. Mr. James Vaeth of Loyola High School, Brother Patrick, C.F.X., of Mt. St. Joseph's High School, and Brother Andrew of Calvert Hall College. Also, Father Shaum, formerly a curate at St. Vincent's of Old Town and now on the Faculty of Mt. St. Mary's Seminary in Emmitsburg, is enrolled in the Graduate School where he is working for his masters degree.

Civil Service Announces Two Tests For Qualified Students

The Civil Service Commission has given notice that two Federal civil-service examinations designed for the outstanding college-man and woman will be announced during the third week of October.

The Junior Management Assistant examination will be open to students with training or experience in the social sciences, business or public administration, who show leadership and management ability. The positions pay entrance salaries of $3,100 and $3,825 a year. Students may also apply if their major study is in government, economics, international relations, industrial management, industrial engineering, sociology, psychology, anthropology, geography, or history.

The Junior Professional Assistant examination, which will be used for filling positions paying $3,102 a year, will be open to students in the fields of bacteriology, economics, geography, geophysics, social science, and statistics.

Persons who wish to do so may apply for both examinations. The JMA examination will be used to fill positions in Washington, D. C., and throughout the country in social science and administrative fields where the need is for high potential for executive and administrative development. The JPA positions to be filled are located in Washington, D. C., and vicinity with the exception of geophysicist positions which are located throughout the country. These positions will require a high type of professional competence and the duties will involve professional research.

Applicants for both examinations must pass a written test, in addition to having had college training in the appropriate field of work. Students who plan to complete work on their bachelor's or master's degrees by June 30, 1952, may apply for these examinations. If they qualify, they may be offered appointments before graduation and go on full-time duty immediately after becoming available.

Do You Wear Socks?

Are you bothered by the plung of the "Sock-Market?" A leading soap manufacturer says that there is no need for woollens to shrink.

Here are a few helpful rules for washing woollens:

1. Wash socks after each wearing.
2. Use only luke-warm water.
4. Use only a mild washing product.
5. Squeeze suds gently through socks while they are under water.
6. Press water out of socks with hands, then roll in a towel to remove excess moisture.

Things not to do:

1. Use hot water.
2. Soak socks before washing.
3. Use harsh soap.
4. Lift socks in and out of water while washing.
5. Hang socks for drying unless on forms.
6. Dry socks in direct heat.

Frosh Hazing

Each year a special set of rules governing the freshmen initiation program is left to the discretion of the Sophomore Class. In past years this program has been carried out with considerable success; however, this year tradition was squashed by a seemingly complete indifference by the sophomores to execute their duty.

At the outset "pup" caps were furnished to the freshmen, and in all justice it must be said that on the first day there seemed to be some semblance of a hazing program in progress. But in succeeding days the school was assured that this was not the case.

A fundamental factor in the hazing plans calls for a vigilance committee to be formed by the sophomores, but this was not done. The principal rule of the program is to have the frosh wear their caps until the Soph-Frosh athletic contest. This too was ignored, together with the remaining ten rules.

Although Freshmen hazing seems to some to be ridiculous and childish it has a very definite purpose. Rule No. 9 under Freshman Indoctrination in the Student Handbook states, "Freshmen are forbidden to form cliques, particularly those based on Prep School acquaintances, since such cliques are detrimental to fellowship and student spirit." Another rule requires the Frosh to commit to memory the College songs and yells, and the regulations pertaining to class absence and attendance. Such requirements are almost a basic part of the freshman year in any college, and also do a splendid job of associating the new students with their school. Let this year be a lesson to future sophomores, and if they are not going to do a good job on hazing, don't do it at all.

The Critolog

by Malcolm S. Rose

For a blend of brutal realism yet ultimate moral retribution, Oliver Twist ranks as one of England's best this year. This marks the third great film from the works of Charles Dickens. Along with Tale of Two Cities and Great Expectations, this one also shows that the English author is interesting even though intellectual.

John Howard Davies gives an inspiring performance as the lad with many ills and troubles. Perpetually a scene-stealer, Alec Guinness as the viperous, luckless Fagin performs his duties in the highest artistic tradition. Other fine portrayals are rendered by Henry Stephenson, Robert Newton, and Francis Sullivan.

Perhaps the finest job of production and staging seen here for some while was evident in the Peter Lawrence production of Peter Pan. Fortunately, this James M. Barrie classic will return in the spring.

For those who wish to recapture the fantasies and optimism of childhood, this musical play is strongly recommended. Veronica Lake, sans hanging hairdo, plays the perpetual lad, Peter, and Lawrence Tibbett, former Met operatic star fills the double role of Mr. Darling and Captain Hook.

One sits there amazed at the phenomenally expert staging of John Burrell. His handling of the flying people, invisible sprite, and offstage action vividly recapture the land of make-believe. Although past his peak as one of the world's finest classical baritones, Mr. Tibbett still shows traces of rich, sonorous tone quality and overwhelming personality. He however has a difficult time keeping scenes from being purloined from him by a mangy, overgrown dog ably played by Frank Neal.

Early Sunday afternoons can be enjoyably spent by viewing Take Another Look, WMAR-TV. Here the previous Saturday's feature grid contest is replayed via film. Red Barber, an agreeable New York sportscaster and Dr. Mal Stevens, former coach, discuss the events and keep the listener abreast of the latest single-wing strategies and T-formation frolics with instructive chalk talks.

Folk And Hillbilly Tunes

The other day a few of us were sitting around in the cafeteria drinking coffee and shooting the breeze in the best Loyola tradition and discussing music. One of the fellows asked what the difference was between hillbilly and folk tunes. This question floored me because I have always considered them as two names for the same thing, but in the interest of truth, I went down to the Pratt Library for a little research. It seems that there is a great difference between the two. Folk music consists of those songs which have been handed down orally from generation to generation, their composers unknown and their origins very difficult or impossible to trace. Very few if any of our hillbilly songs can fit this definition. They are simply commercial tunes ground out to satisfy a public which has suddenly acquired a taste for this style of music. There seems to be little or no distinction between our

FROM THE LIBRARY

A century ago a young professor—a big, quiet, humorous fellow—grew weary of his students' reluctance to enjoy Latin and Greek epics under duress, and settled down on a farm to provide novels for their leisure hours. Though prouder of the grapes he grew than of the romances he wrote, he found his royalties right welcome whenever the crops didn't pay. And in time a prose epic of his became one of those classics that students are reluctant to enjoy under duress.

Blackmore thought The Maid of Sker his finest work, and preferred Springhaven to Lorna Doone, but never got anyone to agree with him. Lorna Doone sold slowly at first, but the publisher risked a less costly second edition ('Because Blackmore's a good fellow') and sold a million copies. Of the second million, our library has several, which are much unread. This is odd; for it isn't required reading. Loyola respects the author's judgment that college men will devour a good story if they don't have to. Will they, now?

Nobody reads the book without looking back on it fondly across the years. Nobody ever forgets the snowstorm, the wrestling match, John Ridd's perilous exploration of Doone Glen, or similar adventures too many to recall. Today's popular romances are pale stuff beside 17th-century Exmoor, with its gallant highwaymen and cheery hearths and wild landscapes. Come all ye, then, and be acquainted with

'The brigands' den, the prisoned bride,

The giant yeoman's hero mould
Who fought and garrulously told
The epic of the countryside.'

You won't flunk English 113 for failure to read it, but you'll risk the lonely old age that awaits men who don't learn early to love good books. Social security offers no protection from boredom.

The question is, of course, where does the overburdened undergraduate find time to read books? And the answer is, of course, in the boring half-hour between the two television programs worth viewing on any ordinary evening. Look at Blackmore. Even without television's help, he found time to write books.

Jack Spellacy and Jim Garland are coaching the freshmen gridders out at Loyola High this year Doc Carozza, lacrosse standout last year, has been drafted Ted Venetoulis, a freshman, has made quite a name for himself coaching the Red Shield footballers, Baltimore's representative in the piggy-bank Bowl.

The golf team is looking forward to a big season again this spring, with last season's lineup completely intact. Those returning are co-captains Jim Pelisek and Jack Cooney, Bill Gross, Frank McCoy, Lee Bardelman, and Tony Pistorio.

Gene Conroy, onetime GREYHOUND sports editor, is now with the Army Intelligence Corps Bob Bradley, number two man on the tennis squad last year, has transferred to Georgetown Bob Anderson, of Loyola cage fame, became the proud father of a baby boy on September 18.

The Block "L" Club is really beginning to talk up their November 3 dance, claiming it is the "most reasonably priced dance in Loyola history" ($1.80) Charley McCullough has lost 15 pounds in the first three weeks of basketball practice, but he is trying to shed 25 more before the season opens.

Loyola led the Eastern Catholic League teams from the foul line last year making 77 in 100 attempts for a .770 percentage. "Red" Schneider was the league's individual leader with 21 for 23, a .913 mark. Incidentally, "Red" dropped 44 straight in practice the other day, later admitting that it was his best effort ever from the foul stripe.

Charley Metz claimed he would like to see his name in this column, so there it is The basketball game with St. Francis of Brooklyn has been moved from December 7 to January 2. Since this is during the holidays, perhaps it will be possible to get a student contingent together to take in the game up there Pete Bamberger and Roger Reynolds are doing a fine job handling the intramural program.

In looking through a number of school papers the other day we noticed that there seems to be a tremendous lack of managers for the various sports. Our experience with trying to get basketball managers bear this out. Two years ago we had seven managers, this year only two.

Lefty Reitz's new glasses are not as strong as his others. Apparently his eyes are improving with age, much to the regret of his ballplayers Terry Ahearn claims that he was so hot on the foul line the other day when he hit 26 for 25, the last one going in twice Gus Gribbin, ex-Calvert Hall tackle, is managing basketball this year.

The Hounds have added another basketball opponent to their schedule when Morris-Harvey agreed to play Loyola, here, on December 7.

Query: Did a certain D. C. school really clean house, or only one room?

Loyola Cross-Country Men Top Washington College At Loyola

The Greyhounds scored their first Mason-Dixon victory in as many starts when they defeated Washington College on the Loyola Campus last Saturday. The Hounds started only seven men in the race and five of them placed. Ed Colbourn came in second behind Appelby from Washington. Kimmerlein, Volatile and Ball placed in that order behind Colbourn. Ball, a returning letterman, showed much promise and Coach McElroy expects great things from him in the coming season. Incidentally, Ball won his first letter in 1943 and eight years later has returned to win his second monogram and sweater.

Ed Davis Shows Drive

Much praise is due to Eddie Davis, the last man to place in the meet. Ed was taken sick in the middle of the race but continued on and finished the race, because he realized that in order to win the contest, five men had to place. He was the fifth man. Bo Menton dropped out with a sprained muscle in his side and Joe DeSantis was also taken ill. The spirit and drive of Ed Davis is certainly a fine example of true Loyola spirit and their will to win.

Season Still Young

The Hounds schedule has just begun and they have yet to meet the toughest teams of the season. On the 27th of October they travel to Catholic U. where they expect their toughest race. Following that they tangle with Hopkins on the Jays campus. Their next home match is on November 7, when they run Catholic U.

Although Loyola has a small squad this year, Coach McElroy feels that he has top material and possibly a champ team. If the spirit continues on the same level as it has, then a title is inevitable and thus will come greater prestige for Loyola.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOUND? Cross-country manager Dick Wojtek, with Tom Volatile, George Kimmerlein, Jim Ball, and Joe DiSantis looking ahead to future matches and championship run at Gallaudet.

Jim Ball, 29 Year Old Vet, Bolsters C-C Team

by John Fitzpatrick

If experience were a major factor in totaling the point score of a cross-country meet, Bill McElroy's hill 'n dale squad would be at the top in every outing. The Greyhound thinclads include a senior who can boast plenty of experience, covering a period of ten years.

He is Jim Ball, a comparative newcomer to the Evergreen campus, who began his spiked-shoe career at Loyola in 1942, and is now closing it in 1951. Jim entered Loyola in the Fall of '42 after graduating from Annapolis High School, and immediately sought to make a place for himself on the cross-country team.

Jim Was Drafted

He caught the eye of coach Jim Gallico, and from that moment was a mainstay for the Hound outfit. In the spring Ball turned his talents to the track squad, for which he performed in the mile and two-mile events, consistently placing among the leaders in each meet. In his sophomore year, Jim ran under a new coach, Bob Martin, and was beginning to make quite a name for himself in this sector.

Then Uncle Sam stepped in, and instead of chasing opponents around the cinder track, Jim found himself chasing Japs around the Pacific. He served in the Navy for two years, aboard destroyers most of the time, and saw action at Okinawa.

Ball Enters Novitiate

After his discharge in 1945, Ball entered the Novitiate of the Carmelite Fathers and stayed until the past year when he decided to return to college. Upon resuming his studies at Evergreen, naturally wanting to return to his racing activities, Jim found a new coach waiting for him; this time in the person of Bill McElroy. McElroy is hoping his "new find" will regain the old form which enabled him to flash his heels to opponents. With Ball returning to aid George Kimmerlein, Tom Volatile, Ed Colbourn and company, Loyola's cross-country fortunes should rise quite a bit.

Jim is a senior, 29 years old, and is an A. B. student.

Pitchmen Win Over Towson By 2-0 Score

The Loyola soccer team inaugurated its season on a winning note as it downed Towson 2-0 in a Columbus Day tilt on the county pitch. The Hounds displayed a potent one-two punch in Armando Luzzi and Jim Bullington who each collected a goal.

In the hard fought opening period, Loyola narrowly missed another tally when Amon Burgee, the Towson goalie, made a brilliant save of Luzzi's penalty shot. The peppery little inside right was not to be denied however, as he drove in and scored a few minutes later unassisted.

Moore Stars

Throughout the rest of the first half play was held to middle field with Kenny Moore, Loyola's center half, playing brilliant soccer.

The Golden Knights, seeking their fourth straight triumph, came roaring back in the third period and pressed the attack. Only the staunch defensive play of fullbacks George Franz and Dick Swentkowski and the shut out performance of Bill McGee in the Loyola nets prevented a Teacher tally.

Bullington Scores

It was this period that the Green team collected its second score. Captain Jim Bullington, fed by Bill Ruff, booted the ball past Burgee, as the Hounds cashed in on their opportunity.

The final period was marked by rough play as the Knights tried desperately to make a comeback. Bill Hottes and Jim Gede gave creditable performances in a losing cause.

Terps Down Hounds By 2-0 Score

by Jack Seal

The Loyola soccer team traveled to College Park last Friday afternoon and absorbed a 2-0 defeat by the Terp booters in a non-conference match. The larger, more experienced Maryland team scored in the second and third periods as they handed the Hounds their first loss of the season.

The initial period was a scoreless deadlock as the two teams battled from the opening gun in a clean, hard fought contest. It was apparent, however, that the depth of the Maryland squad and its experience in every position (the team has a strong Latin American contingent) was going to be a factor.

Fluke Goal

The first Terrapin goal came on a fluke in the second frame. Maryland was awarded a free kick from outside the penalty area. The Hound defense set up a protective screen before its nets. The shot, however, hit a Loyola fullback and deflected off into the cage and the scoreboard read Maryland 1, Loyola 0.

After the intermission, the Hounds, not daunted by this stroke of bad fortune, came roaring back and forced the play throughout most of the second half. It was only the staunch defensive play of fullback Soderburg and goal keeper Eric Baer that prevented the aroused Green team from denting the Maryland nets.

Maryland Scores Again

Bad luck was still dogging the Hounds as the Liners collected their second marker of the day on a rebound shot late in the third quarter. Loyola goalie, Bill McGee, made a diving save of the ball, batting it out onto the pitch. Before the Green defense could be set up again, an alert Maryland forward booted the ball into the cage and made the score 2-0. This was a heart breaker for McGee who had a brilliant day in the Loyola nets, preventing many a Terp score by his steady play.

The fourth and final period was all Loyola as Luzzi and Bullington pressed the attack in a desperate attempt to come back into the game. The Hounds were hampered by a lack of outside strength which hurt their scoring chances. Luzzi was robbed of a goal when Baer made an excellent save of his penalty shot late in the game.

Cagers Step-Up Practice Sessions

Full court scrimmages have been the order of the day as Lefty Reitz's varsity basketball charges completed their fourth week of practice.

With increased emphasis being put on defensive work, the tempo of the afternoon sessions has been stepped up. The latest cut brought the squad down to sixteen players and three or four more are expected to be dropped before the season opens.

Pre-Season Scrimmages

The cagers had been plagued by a series of ankle sprains and blistered feet, but they are now approaching full strength.

Pre-season scrimmages with Navy, Maryland, and George Washington are already in the wind. These workouts are just what the doctor ordered for Reitz's talented but green crew. There is still a lot of work to be done, but already some of the shooting eyes are beginning to show mid-season sharpness.

Increased Depth

Particularly impressive has been the vast improvement shown by Ben Cook and "Red" Schneider over last season, the former especially from under the hoop and Schneider from the outside.

Lefty is figuring that his team depth, which he did not have last year, will enable him to play any of ten boys without noticeably weakening the offense. This factor will also play an important part in bringing to the Loyola court a lot faster brand of ball than has been seen in the previous two seasons.

Chessmen Set School-Wide Tourney

Tom Junas, president of the Loyola College Chess Club, announced today that the club will hold its first intramural tournament of the 1951-52 season, starting Monday, October twenty-ninth.

All students, particularly freshmen, are cordially invited to participate. Experience will not be as big a factor in this tournament as it has in previous years, due to the fact that losers in the early rounds will not be eliminated from competition.

Students wishing to enter the tournament are requested to contact any officer of the club before Friday, October twenty-sixth.

Tentative matches have been arranged with the Naval Academy, Georgetown, St. Marys, Johns Hopkins and the Alumni.

Frosh Down Sophs, 4-2

Thursday, October 11, spelled defeat for the Sophomore class as the determined Freshmen scored four straight times to overcome a two point Soph advantage and win the 1951 Rugby contest.

The Sophs pulled ahead in the opening minutes with two quick goals by Harry Lentz. They held this lead throughout the first half. In the second half the freshmen retaliated and started their scoring spree. It took them a while to learn the tricks of the game, but once they did, no one could stop them.

Many Star

Jim Long, Bill Phillips, Marty Reilly, and a host of other Frosh played well in the game. For the sophomores, Harry Lentz, Mel Townsend and Al Sallimon were big factors in holding down the score.

During the contest, there were many pile ups, which were dealt with by referees France, Fallon and Fairbanks. The spirit for the game was at an all time high and it kept the Refs busy at all times, making certain nobody was getting mangled.

Frosh Victorious

All in all, the Frosh-Soph rugby game meant a good time for everybody. When the final whistle blew and the dust had cleared, the Freshmen had gained their freedom by a 4-2 margin and the Frosh and Sophs became brothers once again.

'Mural League Begins For Students

The fall intramural season at Loyola got under way on October 17 with the opening of the touch football league and the singles tennis tournament. On that date the defending football champions "The Blindmen" began the defense of their title by opposing the "Business Bears." This year the league consists of seven teams who will play a six game schedule. Each team will play the other squads once. The season will extend until the Christmas holidays.

Commissioner Pete Bamberger, in a pre-season interview, predicted that the Blindmen will again nail down the title. He expects the defending champs to be followed by the Old Exporters, The Foreigners, The Business Bears, The Nameless Nine, The Band, and The Fighting Freshmen.

Twenty entries were received for the elimination tennis tournament. Seeded participants are Roger Reynolds, Bill McGee, Hugh Meade, and Tom Mooney. The players will arrange their playing dates by notifying each other by telephone.

At the end of the school year, a trophy will be presented to the student who is represented in the most tournaments and who is on the most winning teams. This trophy will be presented at the athletic banquet.

Gym Closed To Students During Cage Season

by Joe Steffens, Sports Editor

Several weeks ago, a sign appeared on the gate that guards the entrance to the gymnasium which stated in effect, that no one would be allowed in the gym while the varsity is holding practice. Since that time some members of the student body wanted to know the why and wherefore of this cloak and dagger atmosphere.

The reasons for Coach Reitz's edict are varied. One reason is that it enables the members of the varsity to concentrate more on their practice. They are not hampered by the activities of the frustrated athletes who are cavorting on the side courts in their determined effort to embarrass the varsity quintet with their own brilliant style of play.

Another reason is that the players will not be influenced by the opinions of sideline coaches who perchance may be watching practice on a day when one of the subs is having an exceptionally "hot" day. Whereupon the observant student will leave practice under the impression that "the kid's sensational," and will want to know why he isn't on the starting five. Like a rolling stone such talk will gain momentum and is bound to lead to dissension among the team and coach.

The last and perhaps the most important reason is that it has eliminated the possibility of scouting by other schools. Last season Loyola faced several teams who were all too familiar with the Hounds style of play.

It is the hope of this column that it has clarified the reasons for closing the gym during practice sessions. However, this much we can say, the players are working hard, team spirit is good and this years team should afford Loyola Basketball adherents with many a pleasant evening during the winter months.

Congrats!

Congratulations are in order for Bill McElroy and Bish Baker, coaches of the cross-country and soccer teams respectively, and members of both teams for their auspicious debut in their season openers. Both teams have been hindered by a lack of depth in most positions but nevertheless have shown that quality can make up for quantity.

Richard Wojtek Is Completing Fourth Year As C-C Manager

by Jack Potthast

We all realize that school spirit is a necessity for a successful college. Here at Loyola, the spirit for the activities is very high thus assuring unity and victory for the Greyhounds. However we do not realize the work involved in putting these activities before the student body in order that they might enjoy them.

The man behind the scene who is responsible for much of the Hound spirit is Dick Wojtek, a member of the class of 1952. Dick graduated from Calvert Hall College back in 1945. While at the Hall, he confined his talents to the football field where he starred for the Junior Varsity for two years and then moved up to the varsity squad.

Uncle Sam Beckons

After graduation Dick was called upon to defend his country against the threat of Facism. At the end of his military career, Dick entered Loyola College, and since that time he has done much for the betterment of the school.

In his first year, he was active in the History Academy, Sodality, Dramatic Society, and manager of the Cross Country team. The second year saw Dick taking on other activities to add to those of his Freshman year.

He managed Track, was Class President and held an office in the History Academy. The Junior year held in store another job for Dick. He was elected Treasurer for his class.

No Plans For Future

Now that his last year is beginning, he has no definite plans for the future. It has been rumored that he holds down the job of Santa Claus at St. Elizabeth's Orphanage, so he will always be assured of Christmas Employment.

Loyola is proud of Dick and is thankful for the many things he has done to benefit the school. We should also be proud to know a person like Dick, who will surely be successful in all of his undertakings because he has distinguished himself as a fine Catholic leader and a true Loyola Greyhound.
